

Josefina Robertson received her medical degree from University of Gothenburg in 2015, and is currently a clinical resident at the Sahlgrenska University Hospital. Since 2016, she has conducted her doctoral research at the Department of Public Health and Community Medicine at the Institute of Medicine, Sahlgrenska Academy, University of Gothenburg. Her research interests include unhealthy lifestyle factors early in life and their impact on future somatic disease burden.

Body mass index and mental health in young people | Josefina Robertson

Body mass index and mental health in young people

Predictors of early heart failure and cardiomyopathy

Josefina Robertson

SAHLGRENKA ACADEMY
INSTITUTE OF MEDICINE

